Archway volunteers contribute 2,500 hours in 2014

Kearney, Neb. – The Archway announced its volunteers contributed almost 2500 hours in 2014.

“The Archway experience is better because of our volunteers. From our volunteers who help run the exhibit and gift shop to volunteers from UNK, Mosaic and for special events, our volunteers are a friendly smile who help us get things done,” said Volunteer Coordinator Chris Makowski.

Archway volunteers do everything from greeting guests, explaining headsets, helping in the gift shop to keeping the exhibit and facility clean. They also assisted with set-up and clean-up of special events like Crane River Theater’s ‘Zombies Attack: A Run for Your Life.’

If you’re interested in becoming an Archway volunteer, please contact Chris Makowski at 308-237-1000 or visit www.archway.org and click on the yellow ‘Volunteers Wanted’ button on the top right of your web browser.
